

MILWAUKEE READY.

The Preparations for the National Republican League.

IT WILL MEET AUGUST 25 TO 28.

Young Men Interested in the Great Campaign for the Preservation of the Credit of the Country and Protection to American Industries—What Milwaukee Will Do in the Way of Entertaining Delegates.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Aug. 17.—Ever since last winter the people of Milwaukee, through a large executive committee, have been making arrangements to receive and entertain the thousands of delegates and their ladies and the tens of thousands of Republicans who will come from all over the country, but chiefly from the states of the great northwest to attend the ninth annual convention of the National Republican League, August 25 to 28, inclusive.

Nothing has been left undone to make such preparations as will render the stay of the state delegations and visitors one of both pleasure and profit. The great exposition building has been fitted up for the occasion and it is so arranged as to seat 10,000 people. The decorations are beautiful and the acoustic properties are perfect.

The business of the convention will consist largely in perfecting plans for the best possible work during the balance of the campaign. In furthering the interests of the Republican party and bringing about the election of McKinley and Hobart and a Republican Congress.

Most of the delegates will be of the younger and active political managers in the states from which they come. It is believed that Chairman Hanna will be given a reinforcement that will be invaluable to him in his great campaign for honest money, protection and good government.

Programme for the Visitors.

Chairman Wiswell, on entertainment, enthusiastically supported by his large committee, has prepared a programme for the entertainment of the visitors that cannot fail to give satisfaction. There will be excursions on the lake, a ride about the city, excursions to a number of the most attractive summer resorts in the state, a military band concert at Schlitz park at 5 o'clock Wednesday evening, and at the same place at 8 o'clock a grand opera, a reception at one of the most popular clubs in the west, theater parties, and one of the finest displays of fireworks ever witnessed in the west. These are only a few of the attractions provided by the entertainment committee.

There will be public meetings on two or three occasions during the week, and the best speakers in the west will edify and instruct the audiences. It is not yet definitely known whether Major McKinley and Mr. Hobart will be present and speak. There was every reason to believe until quite recently that they would attend the convention, and it has been hoped that they would.

Milwaukee has long been recognized as a most princely city for conventions of all characters. Her people are hospitable, the hotel accommodations are choice and ample, the city itself is a summer resort with thousands, and within a few miles of it are numerous other attractive resorts. It is noted for its good cheer as well as good health, and it can be credited with having entertained royally later who have come and sent them home with the thought that they have been guests in such a city.

Center for Many Meetings.

It has become the center of all the state meetings of all political parties, secret societies, and so on. In 1880, when the town was only half its present size, Milwaukee entertained 200,000 visitors on the occasion of the great soldiers' reunion, which was attended by General Grant and many others of the old leaders of the war of the rebellion. Nine years later it entertained an encampment of the Grand Army of the Republic, and at least 150,000 people were so well treated that they have not yet ceased to praise the city and the hospitality of its people. National meetings of the Masons, the Knights of Pythias, and the Knights of Honor have been held here with equal success and pleasure to all the participants.

An attraction at the league convention, while the public workingmen's bazaar, held, will be a double quarter of fine vocalists, who, for several months, have been practicing on the songs that will be rendered. They sang on the occasion of the ratification meeting, when Senator Thurston made his great speech on the evening of August 5, and captured the vast audience, being recalled several times.

All will be Welcomed.

From what has been said it can be inferred that Milwaukee will be prepared to accommodate and pleasantly entertain as many as will come to the city the week of the great national gathering of Republicans, even though the number runs up to a quarter of a million. Assurances from Illinois, Indiana, Michigan, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Minnesota, and Wisconsin indicate that there will be a general outpouring of enthusiastic admirers of McKinley and Hobart and workers for honest money and protection, while from every state and territory there will come full delegations, accompanied by many who are not delegates, but who come to lend their influence and give their help in making this, the ninth annual gathering of an organization that has done great good in two presidential campaigns and is prepared to do a vast amount of effective work in this, the most important presidential campaign since the election of Abraham Lincoln.

While there does not seem to be any good excuse for a lack of knowledge as to the objects of the Republican League, it is nevertheless a fact that a great many do not seem to be familiar with its aims, when it was organized, what it has done, what it proposes to do. There are many who think it is an organization in opposition to the regular state and national committees. Nothing can be farther from the truth than this.

Born to be a Helper.

It was born with the single thought to be a valuable help to such committees, and so it has been, though in some states it has not had the hearty co-operation of the regular Republican central committees, for the reason that the latter have feared that it might desire to encroach upon its rights and privileges. The National League has never been disposed to attempt to control in the distribution of patronage. It has always modestly stood back and enjoyed seeing others do that part of what is presumed to be party work.

Once, early in the administration of President Harrison, the league in New York did make an earnest appeal for the election of one of its members, who was eminently qualified, to the position of United States judge. The candidate was endorsed by the national officers, by all the state officers of the league, and by a great number of other distinguished and influential Republicans, but Mr. Harrison appointed another man. That may have had something to do with the league's abstaining from attempting to control federal appointments and to run things in the various states. The men who led in establishing this new power in Republican politics realized, as all thoughtful, sensible men do, and must continue to realize, that in all great enterprises, there must be thorough organization, and that this is particularly true in all political enterprises.

Impetus to Republican Clubs.

Until the league was brought into existence the formulation of Republican clubs received but little attention. Since then many thousands of Republican clubs, strong, active, energetic, enthusiastic, determined bodies of Republicans, made up of young, middle-aged, and older men have been a tower of strength in helping along campaigns, both state and national, and the close political observer who has not seen desirable results from the party's organization would be hard to find. Under the leadership of the Republican League thousands of Republican clubs are being organized each week. Before the campaign ends millions of enthusiastic men of area ranging from twenty-one to fifty will constitute a very important factor in the mighty march of Republicanism and McKinleyism upon the white house.

That the organization needs improvement goes without saying. It needs to be made stronger, more permanent in its character; it needs to be so organized that at least the frame work of every club is in position between campaigns so that all of the members can be called quickly into action. It is claimed by some that the man who has Republicanism in his heart and mind does not need the spur of organization to keep him at his post of duty—to make him aggressive, useful in a campaign like that just entered upon. Grant that; but every year adds hundreds of thousands of new voters to citizenship.

Organization the Thing.

The party is the best organized that is the most enthusiastic, the most patriotic, the most active, that manifests the deepest interest in the country's welfare, and is the readiest to make sacrifices for the country's security and prosperity: is the party that will secure the largest number of new voters. The new voter likes to see something done in a campaign, and he enjoys helping to do it. He has a voice and lungs; fresh blood in his veins; likes to cheer, to keep things moving. There should be a Republican league club in every city, village and hamlet, and an abundance of them, if for no other purpose than to bring to the ranks of the Republican party the largest possible number of the new voters. The league clubs should enter more generally into the work of a wholesome, political education. The thousands of clubs that were organized in 1892, for instance, could well have afforded to keep up their organizations, and have stated meetings for the purpose of discussing the financial question that has steadily been coming to the front from that time to this. Such such organization and through such discussion there undoubtedly would have been built up a sentiment that would have made it impossible for a comparatively unknown man, a lawyer with little practice, an unsuccessful editor, a man who has not yet displayed even moderate—good business qualifications, to make himself the candidate for President of a great party, by means of a carefully prepared, long-continued, demagogical speech, largely devoted to the money question.

Great Men Identified with It.

Great numbers of the most distinguished Republicans in the country have been identified with the Republican League ever since its organization in 1887, and are still its staunch friends. Among them are such men as Benjamin Harrison, William McKinley, Senator John M. Thurston, who has been the national president, ex-Senator Joseph S. Spooner, who has been president of the Wisconsin league two years; ex-Congressman Roberts, M. La Follette, who took the lead in organizing in this state; Senator Foraker, of Ohio, Senator Lodge, of Massachusetts, John W.annamaker, of Pennsylvania, Senator Hawley, of Connecticut, ex-Senator Higgins, of Delaware, ex-Senator Ingalls, of Kansas, ex-Senator McKim, of Ohio, Henry C. Payne, of Wisconsin, Speaker Thomas B. Reed, of Maine, Senator C. K. Davis, of Minnesota, General R. A. Alger, of Michigan, and ex-Governor W. D. Hoard, of Wisconsin.

The low rate given by the railroads and lake transportation companies and the deep interest taken in the campaign make it plain that the convention to be held in Milwaukee will be by far the largest one ever held under the auspices of the National Republican League.

A Lesson on Silver.

Q.—How many standard silver dollars had been coined previous to 1873?
A.—Just 8,031,235.
Q.—How many silver dollars have been coined since 1873?
A.—About 500,000,000.
Q.—Have silver dollars been generally acceptable at any time?
A.—They have not. At no time has there been more than 50,000,000 in circulation in the country. Of the two silver certificates were preferred.

Q.—In what are silver certificates redeemable?
A.—In silver dollars only. The treasury notes issued under the act of July 14, 1890, are, however, redeemable in either silver or gold, at the discretion of the secretary of the treasury.

Q.—Did the government gain or lose by its silver coinage under the acts of 1875 and 1890?
A.—It lost between $100,000,000 and $170,000,000.

Q.—If free coinage were established at 16 to 1, what would become of the gold now in the country, which constitutes the international measure of values and our national basis of currency?
A.—It would be largely, if not wholly, exported.

Q.—In what way?
A.—Those foreigners holding American securities now amounting to over $2,000,000,000 would promptly dispose of them on the terms obtainable in gold, knowing that to longer hold them would mean a liquidation in silver.

Q.—Would foreign exchanges continue to be made in terms of gold with free silver in this country?
A.—No. And the result would necessitate the re-establishment of a gold standard in New York.

Q.—What is a "gold board"?
A.—The same as the old gold room organized in this city in 1892, when gold went to a heavy premium. At that time, and for years after, all the foreign exchanges of the country were regulated by the daily and hourly quotations of the Gold Room. The Gold Room did not actually deal in gold, however, but simply gambled on the rise and fall of the national currency.

Q.—Why does it have to be re-established?
A.—Because importers and those having exchanges to secure and meet could not get the requisite gold any other way. Some form of organized gold brokerage would inevitably follow the establishment of a silver standard in this country. It is true that the people would soon rise against such an organization, as they did against the old Gold Room after Black Friday. But Black Friday was a result of a fluctuating currency and standard.

Nansen Not Hopeless.

CHRISTIANA, Aug. 19.—The afternoon to-day announces that Dr. Nansen will not again attempt to reach the north pole in a ship built upon the lines of the Fram. Dr. Nansen, however, says that he will perhaps conduct a sledging party which will attempt to make a dash from Franz Josef Land, north in the direction of the pole. In the light of his recent discoveries and observations in the Arctic circle, Dr. Nansen is of the opinion that it would not be difficult, certainly not impossible, to reach the north pole in this fashion.

Sued His Publisher.

NEW YORK, Aug. 19.—Frank Tennyson Neely, the publisher, of an independent newspaper, was examined by trial to-day in an action brought against him by Col. Richard H. Savage, the author, to recover $12,000 royalties alleged to be due on several novels by Col. Savage and published by Neely. The case is said to be the first in this country where an examination of a publisher and his books has been asked for by an author, and it is said to be the case of the first trial in the French courts in which the author also sued his publisher.

A WARNING NOTE.

Those Who Heed It Not Have Much to Fear

A note of warning.
At first the faintest echo,
It strikes the back.
A peculiar warning not heard, but felt.
It increases day by day.
The back cries out—rebel.
The aches, pains and lameness,
Make life a misery—become unbearable.

Do you understand the warning?
Do you realize "its kidney talk"?
The kidneys are on a strike;
They have been overworked.
Nature intends you to know this,
And has only one way to warn you.
The kidneys are located near the small of the back.

They are composed of delicate fibres that filter the blood.
Stooping positions, a strain or cold often clogs the filters.
This is serious when you don't know what to do.

Backache is the beginning; lame and weak back follows.
The filters fail to do their work.
Kidney disease develops.
The urine is too frequent.
The calls of nature wake you up at night.

A brick-colored deposit shows the trace of failing kidneys.
The urine acid is going the wrong way.
It is passing through the blood.
The calls of nature wake you up at night.

AMERICAN GOODS

For Exhibition in Argentina Need Not Pay a Duty.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 20.—The president of Argentina has issued a decree, a copy of which has been forwarded to the state department, remitting all duties on articles sent from the United States for the purpose of showing the manufacturing and commercial industries of the country. The movement for these exhibitions originated in Philadelphia.

The movement was granted a concession to an American to establish permanent exhibitions of American goods at Caracas, Maracaibo and other large cities of Venezuela.

A new phase of the long contest between Chile, Bolivia and Peru is reported, by which Bolivia is promised a coastline on the Pacific. More than a year ago a treaty was made giving Tacha and Arica to Chile, thus leaving Bolivia cut off from access to the ocean, and one of the few countries situated like Switzerland, entirely without a coast line. Since then the countries have been negotiating and it is said that a treaty has been affected by which Bolivia gets back a strip through Tacha and Arica sufficient to give her an outlet to the Pacific.

AN INDIAN LYNCHED

For a Fight, Deed—His Victim a Young Girl.

LEWISTON, Idaho, Aug. 20.—Frank Biles, a half-breed Indian from the Nez Percé reservation, was taken from the Asotin jail last night and hanged by a mob of indignant citizens. His crime was the criminal outrage of Miss Mary Richardson, a young woman seventeen years of age. Miss Richardson, whose home is in Enterprise, Oregon, was in delicate health and had been visiting friends in this vicinity. Yesterday she started from Lewiston for Asotin unattended on horseback. On the road she was overtaken by Biles and two Indians from the reservation and assaulted.

Last night at 11 o'clock, a band of about thirty citizens, marched to the jail and demanded the keys of the jail. The sheriff refused to comply and the keys were taken from him by force. They then went to the jail, unlocked the door and took out the prisoner. Across one corner of a fence a long pole was laid. A rope was tied around his neck and the other end thrown over the pole and the Indian hanged.

CAN'T FOOL THE FARMERS.

Bryan's Plea Will Not Succeed—Will Not be Led into the Trap.

New York Mail and Express: One of Mr. Bryan's most urgent pleas in behalf of free silver is that it would make the American farmers independent of foreign dictation in fixing the prices of agricultural products. Mr. Bryan's heart bleeds for the farmer. He is quite sure that they are the victims of some dreadful form of oppression which it is his appointed mission to relieve and redress. Having convinced himself that "foreign dictation" is what ails them, he promptly concludes that the free and unlimited coinage of silver is precisely what is needed to alleviate their distress and open the way to an era of unexampled prosperity.

But let us see how the scheme would work in actual practice. The American farmers in 1895 exported products worth $545,714,375. These consisted, in part, of 61,556,638 bushels of corn 66,814,686 bushels of wheat, 14,528,761 barrels of flour and 5,519,121 bales of cotton. These were all paid for in gold or in exchange, resting on a gold basis. If the prices on these commodities were fixed by "foreign dictation" the farmers did not appear to mind it much. They had the produce to sell, the foreigners had the money to pay for it, and the prices were the legitimate reflex of supply and demand in the open market.

Under free silver, however, another element would enter the transaction. The foreign trader of American produce could bring his gold to this country, buy Mexican or South American silver with it at about 52 or 53 cents an ounce, and then, by taking it to our mints and having it coined into American dollars, he could increase the purchasing power of his capital all the way from 40 to 50 per cent, and still pay his importations of our products in lawful American coin.

The farmer would have no redress whatever. His bushel of wheat or corn would have to measure much, his bale of cotton would have to weigh as much as they do to-day, whereas the foreign buyer, by means of free silver inflation, would have his capital enormously expanded, and his price-dictating power, which Mr. Bryan so greatly dreads, would be increased to a point that would make him practically the master of the market.

Prices of agricultural products would be demoralized by the capricious influence of silver speculation, the farmer would get about 50 cents for the grain which to-day brings him a dollar, and the "foreign dictation" which is now a mere phantasm of Mr. Bryan's imagination would become a reality.

Mr. Bryan is trying to fool the farmers, but he can't do it. They understand the great, central issue of the campaign as well as we do. Many of them understand it better. They know that honest money and a stable currency are as necessary to agricultural prosperity as they are to safe banking and successful business. And they know that a financial measure which increases the purchasing power of the foreigner's capital without decreasing the contents of the American bushel or without contracting the weight of the American ton, is simply a scheme to take money from the farmer's pocket and present it as a free gift to the European buyer of our agricultural products.

"HURRAH FOR THE FRAM."

Nansen's Arctic Ship Turns Up Safe and Sound.

CHRISTIANA, Aug. 20.—Dr. Nansen's Arctic exploring ship, Fram, which he left embedded in the ice early in January, 1895, in about latitude 53 degrees north, in order to explore the sea north of the route he proposed to follow, eventually reaching 58 1/2 degrees north, arrived at Skjervo, province of Tromsø, yesterday evening. Captain Sverdrup, her commander, reported all well on board.

The Fram, he added, called at Dure's Island on August 14, and found Prof. Andree, who was still awaiting a favorable wind to enable him to make his balloon trip across the Arctic regions.

Captain Sverdrup, shortly after his arrival, sent the following telegram to Dr. Nansen: "Fram arrived safely. All well on board. Leaves at once for Tromsø. Welcome home."

Dr. Nansen replied to the message as follows: "A thousand times welcome to you and all. Hurrah for the Fram."

The Fram left Skjervo this morning on her way to Tromsø, where Dr. Nansen will meet her.

Deafness Cannot be Cured

by local applications as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube is inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed, Deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; nine cases out of ten are caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

We will give One Hundred Dollars for any case of Deafness (caused by catarrh) that cannot be cured by Hall's Catarrh Cure. Send for circulars; free. F. J. CHENEY & CO., Toledo, Ohio.
